ANNOUNCEMENTS

Applications for 2008 AIBS Emerging Public Policy Leader Award now available

The American Institute of Biological Sciences announced that applications for the 2008 AIBS Emerging Public Policy Leader Award (EPPLA) are now available. The EPPLA was established by AIBS in 2003 as a way to recognize and further the science policy interests of graduate students in the biological sciences and science education. In the recent past Cornell students have won this award: Madhura Kulkarni, a doctoral candidate in biogeochemistry and environmental biocomplexity in 2006, and Karen Deen Laughlin, a doctoral candidate in ecology and evolutionary biology in 2005. Read more on the CfE website. Applications are available on the AIBS website.
